FACULTY THAT'S TRULY INSPIRING

Nursing profession bears the prodigious task of revolutionizing the health and healthcare systems that improves education, leadership and practice in nursing. Sharda School of Nursing Science and Research, Sharda University has been striving for creating nurses who play a key role in transforming health care and improving health by means of finding innovative and effective ways to provide seamless, affordable, and safe quality care that will produce improved health outcomes, which is a real challenges these days. The Sharda School of Nursing and Research is committed to encounter these challenges by preparing student nurses who have a broad understanding of the professional aspects by encouraging high-standard theoretical and clinical practice along with research evidence applications, which ensures safe and competent nursing practice.

The tasks lie in the talented and dedicated faculty members and researchers at the Nursing School. They are passionate about improving health through mentoring by providing individual attention to the next generation of nurses. We take great pride in producing efficient nurses who carry forth the tradition of excellence.

In these challenging times COVID pandemic, our students have been provided with remote learning by our expert faculty so that they can be prepared themselves to render their competent nursing services as frontline health care warriors during newly emerging pandemic situations in future across the globe.

I recommend you to look into the various options we have to offer for education and vocation that makes a meaningful distinction in your career path.

It aligns with the National Health Policy 2003 to prepare students to address national healthcare needs. The program emphasizes moral conduct and social, personal, and professional responsibilities. It includes classroom learning, projects, & assignments to enhance practical knowledge. After completing the course, After successful completion of the academic program, students undergo a mandatory six-month internship, allowing them to apply their knowledge in real-world healthcare scenarios and gain confidence in patient care.Graduates of the B.Sc. Nursing program have diverse career opportunities in hospitals, community health organizations, research institutions, and educational settings. They can also pursue higher education such as M.Sc. Nursing, specialized certifications, or international career pathways, enabling continuous professional growth and advancement.

B.Sc. (POST BASIC NURSING)

The Post Basic B.Sc. Nursing (PB B.Sc.) is a two-year graduate program designed to provide an in-depth understanding of advanced-level nursing. It helps students enhance their knowledge and skills to deliver comprehensive medical care. The program prepares them for both surgical and non-surgical roles in various real-world hospital settings. It emphasizes independent decision-making, patient care, and professional responsibilities. The program covers a wide range of subjects, including Medical-Surgical Nursing, Maternal Nursing, Mental Health Nursing, Microbiology, and Community Health Nursing. In addition, Nursing Research and Statistics are integral components, empowering students to apply scientific methods, analyze healthcare data, and contribute to research-driven practice. Emphasis is also placed on professional ethics, communication skills, and holistic patient care. Through a combination of classroom teaching, clinical postings, case studies, and project work, students gain practical exposure and hands-on experience in real-world hospital and community settings. They may also pursue higher education such as M.Sc. Nursing or specialized certifications, opening pathways for advanced clinical practice, research, and global career opportunities.

Ph.D. IN NURSING

Ph.D. in Nursing is a research-based Doctorate degree. This course entails conducting Nursing Research to improve healthcare facilities. The highest level of study a nursing student can attain is Ph.D in Nursing. It is an outstanding intellectual accomplishment that, when used, has the power to alter the healthcare system for the benefit of people. Ph.D in Nursing is a research-oriented doctoral degree that emphasizes top-notch, academic research that promotes both nursing education and the nursing profession as a whole. Nursing scholars who will contribute to the development & application of knowledge for improving the quality of nursing education, research, service, and dissemination are prepared through doctoral study. The program also fosters academic excellence by encouraging publication in reputed journals, participation in national and international conferences, and engagement in scholarly discussions. It develops leadership, teaching, and policy-making skills, preparing graduates for influential roles in academia, research institutions, and healthcare organizations. Graduates play a vital role in advancing nursing education, improving clinical practices, shaping health policies, and promoting evidence-based care for the benefit of society at large.

M.Sc. (NURSING)

The M.Sc. in Nursing is a two-year graduate program designed to provide advanced knowledge of nursing methodologies and principles. It includes subjects like Advanced Nursing, Clinical Practice Specialty, & Nursing Management, training students to manage hospital and clinic activities effectively.
